

Are you a Christian or a Disciple?

There is a difference. Read the description for each topic and place a check mark next to the one that best expresses how you feel or act. Count the number of check marks for each category: Christian and Disciple.

NOTE: This is not a scientific study. It is a survey, created to raise questions, cause reflection, and promote discussion. Take it with an open mind and a willingness to learn how you can grow in your faith, understanding, and your worship and obedience to Jesus.

CHRISTIAN

I like to go to church. I see my friends, listen to Bible teaching, and still have the rest of the day to myself.

I love my church's traditions. They are comfortable and familiar. They remind me of my childhood.

When I sin I do what I can to hide it. I don't want anyone else to get hurt, and I don't want to negatively impact my family's or church's reputation.

I read my Bible as often as possible. It's on my TO DO list.

I go to church to hear a good message so that I can be spiritually fed.

DISCIPLE

I am the church. I attend on Sunday and look for new people to welcome or get to know those who sit by themselves.

I respect tradition but I welcome change. I am willing to try something new, even when it leads me out of my comfort zone.

When I sin I am quick to confess my sin and seek strength and support from others. The power of sin is defeated when brought to the light.

I strive to live the Bible and make an effort to think about what I read throughout the day.

I think of ways to apply the message I heard at church and discuss its significance with others.

CHRISTIAN

I give to the offering each week. I give more if the pastor gives a good message or if I sinned a lot during the week.

Church offering

I give to the offering each week because it's one of the ways I worship God. Sometimes I give more when I hear of a specific need.

I avoid conflict so that I don't make things worse. It's better to sweep problems under a rug than constantly yelling and screaming.

Conflict

I seek to resolve conflict, even if it means more arguing and frustration in the short-term. I care about healthy relationships and believe resolving conflict will pay off in the long-term.

It's important to know facts and details about the Bible so that I'm not deceived by false teachers.

Bible knowledge

I love learning from the Bible and putting it into practice. I also like sharing what I learn with others so they can practice it, too.

I'm at the church all the time. I never miss anything, even if I'm tired.

Church calendar

I make attending church a priority, but I choose to not attend some events so that I can rest or serve in other places.

I serve because it will look good on my resume and to make God happy.

Serving

I serve because God has been so good to me. I want to thank him for his goodness and encourage others to do the same.
